

Dairy Cow Milking

Fact Sheet and Talking Points

- These are dairy cows called Holsteins. They are milked twice a day and will each produce about 6-8 gallons of milk each day.
- Notice the cows drinking water, they will each drink about a bathtub full of water each day.
- When the cows are milked, the milk goes automatically to a refrigerated tank where it waits for a special tanker truck.
- The calves at the end of the video are about a month old. They are curious and enjoy playing with their red toy!
